JOHNSON has discovered the most Certain, Speedy and only Effectual Remedy in the world for all Private Diseases, Weakness of the Back and Limbs, Strictures, Affections of the Kidneys and Bladder, Involuntary Discharges, Impotency, General Debility, Nervousness, Dyspepsy, Languor, Low Spirits, Confusion of Ideas, Palpitation of the Heart, Timidity, Trembling, Dimness of Sight or Giddiness, Disease of the Head, Throat, Nose or Skin, Affections of the Liver, Lungs, Stomach or Bowels—those Terrible disorders arising from the Secret Habits of Youth—those SECRET and solitary practices more fatal to their victims than the song of Sirens to the Mariners of Ulysses, blighting their most brilliant hopes or anticipations, rendering marriage &c., impossible.

YOUNG MEN

especially, who have become the victims of Solitary Vice, that dreadful and destructive habit which annually sweeps to an untimely grave thousands of Young Men of the most exalted talents and brilliant intellect, who might otherwise have entranced listening Senates with the thunders of Eloquence, or waked to ecstasy the living lyre, may call with confidence.

MARRIAGE.

Married Persons, or Young Men contemplating marriage, who are aware of physical weakness, organic debility, deformity, &c., speedily cured.

Any one who places himself under the care of Dr. J. may religiously confide in his honor as a gentleman, and confidently rely upon his skill as a physician.

ORGANIC WEAKNESS

Immediately Cured, and full Vigor Restored.

This Distressing Affection—which renders Life miserable and marriage impossible—is the penalty paid by the victims of improper indulgences. Young persons are too often tempted to commit excesses from not being aware of the dreadful consequences that may ensue. Now, who that understands the subject will pretend to deny that the power of procreation is lost sooner by those falling into improper habits than by the prudent? Besides being deprived the pleasures of healthy offspring, the most serious and destructive symptoms of both body and mind arise. The system becomes Deranged, the Physical and Mental Functions Weakened, Loss of Procreative Power, Nervous Irritability, Dyspepsia, Palpitation of the Heart, Indigestion, Constitutional Debility, a Wasting of the Frame, Cough, Consumption, Decay and Death.

OFFICE, NO. 7 SOUTH FREDERICK STREET, Second building going from Baltimore street a few doors from the corner. Full name and number. Letters must be paid and contain a stamp. The Doctor's Diplomas hang in his office.

A CURE WARRANTED IN TWO DAYS.

No Mercury or Nauseous Drugs.

DR. JOHNSON,

Member of the Royal College of Surgeons, London, Graduate from one of the most eminent Colleges in the United States, and the greater part of whose life has been spent in the Hospitals of London, Paris, Philadelphia and elsewhere, has effected some of the most astonishing cures that were ever known; many troubled with ringing in the head and ears when asleep, great nervousness, being startled at sudden sounds, bashfulness, with frequent blushing, attended sometimes with derangement of mind, were cured immediately.

TAKE PARTICULAR NOTICE.

Dr. J. addresses all those who have injured themselves by improper indulgence and solitary habits, which ruin both body and mind, unfitting them for either business, study, society or marriage.

These are some of the sad and melancholy effects produced by early habits of youth, viz: Weakness of the Back and Limbs, Pains in the Head, Dimness of Sight, Loss of Muscular Power, Palpitation of the Heart, Dyspepsy, Nervous Irritability, Derangement of the Digestive Functions, General Debility, Symptoms of Consumption, &c.

MENTALLY.—The fearful effects of the mind are much to be dreaded—Loss of Memory, Confusion of Ideas, Depression of Spirits, Evil-Forebodings, Aversion to Society, Self-Distrust, Love of Solitude, Timidity, &c., are some of the evils produced.

Thousands of persons of all ages can now judge what is the cause of their declining health, losing their vigor, becoming weak, pale, nervous and emaciated, having a sickly appearance about the eyes, cough and symptoms of Consumption.

YOUNG MEN

Who have injured themselves by a certain practice indulged in when alone, a habit frequently learned from evil companions, or at school, the effects of which are often felt, even when asleep, and if not cured renders marriage impossible, and destroys both mind and body, should apply immediately.

What a pity that a young man, the hope of his country, the darling of his parents, should be snatched from all prospects and enjoyments of life, by the consequence of deviating from the path of nature, and indulging in a certain secret habit. Such persons MUST, before contemplating reflect that a sound mind and body are the most necessary requisites to promote connubial happiness. Indeed, without these, the journey through life becomes a weary pilgrimage; the prospect hourly darkens to the view; the mind becomes shadowed with despair, and filled with the melancholy reflection that the happiness of another becomes blighted with our own.

DISEASE OF IMPRUDENCE.

When the misguided and imprudent votary of pleasure finds that he has imbibed the seeds of this painful disease, it too often happens that an ill-timed sense of shame, fear of discovery, deters him from applying to those whose education and respectability can alone be relied on, delaying till the constitutional symptoms of this horrid disease make their appearance, such as ulcerated sore throat, diseased nose, nocturnal pain s in the head and limbs, dimness of sight, deafness, nodes on the shin bones and arms, blotches on the head, face and extremities, progressing with frightful rapidity, till at last the palate of the mouth or the bones of the nose fall in, and the victim of this awful disease becomes a horrid object of loathsomeness, till death puts a period to his dreadful sufferings, by sending him to "that Undiscovered Country from whence no traveller returns."

It is a melancholy fact that thousands fall victims to this terrible disease, owing to the unskillfulness of ignorant pretenders, who, by the use of that Deadly Poison, Mercury, ruin the constitution and make the residue of life miserable.

STRANGERS

Beware how you trust your lives, or health to the care of the many Unlearned and Worthless Pretenders, destitute of knowledge, name or character, who copy Dr. Johnston's advertisements, or style themselves, in the newspapers, regularly Educated Physicians, incapable of Curing, they keep you trifling month after month, taking their filthy and poisonous compounds, or as long as the smallest fee can be obtained, and in despair, leave you with ruined health to weep over your galling disappointment.

Dr. Johnston is the only Physician advertising.

His Diploma or diplomas always hang in his office.

His remedies or treatment are unknown to all others, prepared from a life spent in the great hospitals of Europe, the first in the country and a more extensive Private Practice than any other Physician in the world.

INDORSEMENT OF THE PRESS.

The many thousands cured at this institution, year after year, and the numerous important Surgical operations performed by Johnston, witnessed by the reporters of the "Sun," "Clipper," and many other papers, notices of which have appeared again and again before the public, besides his standing as a gentlemen of character and responsibility, is a sufficient guarantee to the afflicted.

SKIN DISEASES SPEEDILY CURED.

No letters received unless post-paid and containing a stamp, to be used on the reply. Persons writing should state age and send portion of advertisement describing symptoms. Persons writing should be particular in directing their letters to this Institution, in the following manner:

THE BATTLE AUTUMN OF 1862.

BY JOHN G. WHITTIER.

The flags of war like storm-birds fly,
The charging trumpets blow:
Yet rolls no thunder in the sky,
No earthquakes strive below.

And, calm and patient, Nature keeps
Her ancient promise well,
Though o'er her bloom and greenness sweeps
The battle's breath of hell!

And still she walks in golden hours
Through harvest-happy farms,
And still she wears her fruits and flowers
Like jewels on her arms.

What mean the gladness of the plain,
This joy of eve and morn,
The mirth that shakes the beard of grain
And yellow shocks of corn?

Ah! eyes may well be full of tears,
And hearts with hate are hot:
But even-paced come round the years,
And nature changes not.

She meets with smiles our bitter grief,
With songs our groans of pain;
She mocks with tint of flower and leaf
The war-fields crimson stain.

Still, in the cannon's pause, we hear
Her sweet thanksgiving psalm:
Too near to God for doubt or fear,
She shares the eternal calm.

She knows the seed lies safe below
The fires that blast and burn;
For all the tears of blood we sow
She waits the rich return.

She sees with clearer eyes than ours
The good of suffering born—
The hearts that blossom like her flowers
And ripen like her corn.

Oh, give to us, in times like these,
The vision of her eyes:
And make her fields and fruited trees
Our golden prophecies.

Oh, give to us, her finer ear!
Above this stormy din,
We, too, would hear the bells of cheer
Ring peace and freedom in!

THE BURGLAR'S LEAP.

A REPORTER'S STORY.

BY ANNA M. LAWSON.

My brother Richard was a reporter, and for years he was attached to the newspaper press of one of our largest cities.

Dick saw many strange and thrilling sights, accounts of some of which we gleaned from the papers he sent us, while the particulars of others he communicated to us through the medium of his letters.

From one of the epistles which we received, I copy the narrative, verbatim. He says:

'I had a somewhat thrilling adventure the other night good folks—quite thrilling, if I am any judge of such matters. I will tell you the particulars, and the account would not prove uninteresting to any body, much less will it do so to you.'

'I was going home from the office about midnight (a morning paper, you know, is apt to keep one up at all hours,) when as I was passing up Sixth street—which is one of our largest avenues—and had just gotten abreast of a twelve foot alley—a dark place filled with rickety abodes of poverty, and habitations that bear a most villainous reputation—I was startled by a sudden cry of 'Murder.'

'With terrible distinctness the word pealed out on the stilly air.'

'Murder! murder! murder!'

'The ominous sound was uttered by a woman too: and thrilled me in every nerve of the body.'

'For a few moments I stood and listened with my gaze fixed up the alley. The word was not repeated, however, nor was there any particular stir among the outlawed denizens, and the larger streets were nearly, or quite deserted. The cry of murder was, no doubt, of too frequent occurrence in that vicinity to attract much attention from the occupants of the alley, and no one else appeared near to hear it.

'My curiosity was aroused, however, and it being all in the way of my business to poke myself around into strange places, I rapidly pushed on up the dark alley. I saw nothing, though, to throw any light on the recent outcry.'

'At length I stopped, and, as it happened, in front of a dingy, old fashioned three story brick house—a building, that in its better days, a long time ago, had no doubt been looked upon as something particularly fine.'

'Suddenly I heard a window quickly raised and a sheet of light instantly flooded the alley at my feet, and I looked up.'

'Murder!' I again heard in a woman's voice, now uttered in tones broken and half smothered.

'The next moment, the window was violently slammed down, and the light disappeared.

'Again all was dark and still.'

'I must find out what that means,' I muttered to myself.'

'Instantaneously I turned to the door of the house, and rapped in a quick and anxious manner.'

'There was no answer.

'I rapped again, loud and long.

'Still no answer.'

'Impatiently I began to pound upon the door.'

'At last I heard the clatter of feet in the bare hall, and a few moments afterward, a dirty, slovenly-looking Irish woman cast open the door and confronted me. The creature was drunk too, so drunk that she staggered.'

'As the door opened, I heard a mingling of male and female voices, and the sound of a bacchanalean revelry.'

'Who lives in the third story of this house?' I demanded.

'I did not, of course, suppose, that the house was occupied by but one family, on the contrary, I judged that every room was rented separately.'

'Who lives in the third story, is it?' repeated the woman, with a drunken hiccough between every syllable.

'Yes, yes. Who lives in the third story?' I replied, with a growing impatience.

'An' how should I know, I'd like yer to tell me?' was the indignant answer. 'I'm not the landlord, sure, nor the landlord's lady, ayther.'

'Then you don't know who lives up stairs?' I added.

'Divil a bit,' was the forcible rejoinder. 'Well, some one cried murder up there, a few moments ago!' I continued.

'Did they, indade?' responded she without the least show of anxiety or of curiosity.

'Yes, they did,' I quickly replied—didn't you hear it?

'Divil a bit, sur.'

'I saw that I should make no headway with this poor creature, and took another course.

'I will go up stairs and see what is the matter, my good woman, if you have no objection,' I exclaimed, at the same time, pushing past the female, who, however, willingly made way for me.

'Be me sowl, it's none o'me bis'ness at all, at all,' she muttered as she shut the door.

'I scrambled on up the dark, rickety stairs and at last mounted to the third story.

'As I reached the upper hall, I heard the sound of voices, issuing from the front room. I moved over towards the door, following the sound, for I could see nothing: but had not taken half a dozen steps when that ominous cry again smote fearfully on my ears.'

'Murder! murder!'

'I stopped a moment, thrilled to the very heart, and then dashed on again: for I am no coward as you know, and only too ready to poke myself into danger and difficulties.'

'I tried the door, it was locked.'

'Open the door there!' I said with a peremptory kick.

'I heard a scrambling inside, and the buzz of smothered voices, curses, cries, groans, and, as I thought, the peculiar sound of blows.'

'Outside, I could hear nothing except the cries of the drunken revelers, which rose up from the rooms below.'

'No one at all seemed to hear or heed what was going on there in the third story.'

'I knocked again, once more demanding admittance.'

'Open the door there! I cried.'

'I thought not of danger to myself.—Previous immunity from harm had made me reckless and venturesome.'

'The sound of the struggle grew louder and more violent. It was fierce and sanguinary, if there was any judging from what I heard.'

'Help! oh help! now came to my ears in smothered tones.'

'Fairly beside myself with excitement, I placed my shoulder against the door, and pushed with all my might. In a few moments it burst open, and flew back against the wall.'

'I almost fell my full length into the apartment. Managing to recover my equilibrium, however, I glanced around.'

'The room was a large one, and was comfortably, even handsomely, furnished. I was amazed: for I did not expect to behold anything but the evidences of the most squallid poverty.'

'What did it mean?'

'At a glance I took in the comfortable, even luxurious surroundings: and then my gaze became riveted on a terrible scene which was transpiring in the middle of the room.'

A woman still young in years, as I could readily see, and quite handsomely dressed, was laying prostrate upon her back on the floor. Her dress was torn and bloody, her face and hands besmeared with gore, and her whole appearance violently deranged and disordered.

'Bending over her was a rather handsome man who was probably thirty-five years of age. He was well and fashionably dressed; and his whole appearance, save that it was now disordered by excitement, was quite gentlemanly. His hands were bloody, and his apparel much disordered.'

'I said the man was rather handsome—he was; but at the same time he was quite as wicked-looking as he was handsome. Never shall I forget the glance he darted at me as I tumbled into the room. It was the look of a fiend. His brilliant black eyes flashed like balls of burning fire, and in their gleaming depths was mirrored every dark crime in the blackened calendar.'

'The glaring devil was resting one knee on the woman's swelling bosom, and clasping her throat with his hands, till the power of utterance was almost taken from her.'

'What do you want here?' hissed the man between his set teeth: and he looked as if he would kill me on the spot, if his hands were only free.

'The woman moaned and tried to cry murder again but she was too choked up to utter the word distinctly.'

'The brute who had her down was really strangling her to death, and my blood boiled at the sight. The scene so excited me too that I did not think to look out for help. In fact, I thought only of what was before me.'

'Let go there, you villain! I cried, springing at the fellow furiously.'

'The rascal relaxed his hold of the woman to save himself from me: and he and I grappled in a deadly grip.'

'Holding each other at arms' length, we measured one another's powers.'

'The woman on the floor now began to breath freer, and show some signs of consciousness. In a few moments she staggered to her feet, and glanced around the room in a bewildered manner. Then her eyes fell upon us and her face lighted up.'

'Thank God, I am saved from death, she cried, in cracked tones, as she seemed to realize the scene before her—'Philip,' she added, shaking her reddened hand—red with her own blood—at my writhing opponent. 'Philip, true as I was to you, you would have killed me; and as sure as I live I'll give you up to justice.'

'Still that wicked looking man and myself held each other at arms length.'

'What has led to this scene, madman?' I demanded, as well as I was able, for my opponent was a man of muscle, and was struggling hard to get the better of me.—Strong as I was myself, I doubted my power to hold him much longer.'

'The unfounded jealousy of that man—my husband: was the woman's deep reply. That man Philip!'

'Devil that you are breathe that name at your peril, fiercely cried my antagonist.'

'The woman had now somewhat recovered herself, and rising to her feet, she replied boldly and defiantly:

'That man, I say, Philip Durney, the burglar!'

'The next moment she fled from the room and I could hear the pit-a-pat of her feet descending the stairs.'

'The man uttered a howl.'

'Philip Durney! I repeated in complete amazement.'

'The name of Phil Durney was notoriously famous. A more desperate, bloody handed desperado was nowhere to be found and for a long time previous, herculean efforts had been made to capture the bold, desperate and successful burglar chief; for such he was known to be.'

'Yes, Phil Durney, curse you! hissed the outlaw: Phil Durney, the burglar, desperado and murderer! Now, hands off!'

'The desperate villain made a powerful wrench: but I am no child, and he did not escape me.'

'Evidently the rascal had no weapons about him, or I should have fared worse. It was a providence for me. His wife he had been beating to death with his fist.'

'The last words of the burglar had hardly fallen from his lips, when the clatter of feet was heard on the stairs; and almost instantly afterward, three or four policeman rushed into the apartment.'

'Seize this man! I quickly cried out. It is Durney, the burglar!'

'We know it! simultaneously exclaimed the officers, as they darted across the room.'

'The robber's wife had sent them up, as it subsequently appeared.'

'With a fearful curse, Durney again made an effort to escape me, and this time he was successful as he was sudden, my attention being somewhat drawn away to other objects.'

'A few desperate bounds carried him out of the room. The policemen grabbed at him, but he tore away. At the head of the stairs, however, the experienced officers had stationed a couple of their number, and the desperate burglar was defeated in his purpose.'

'We followed the villain.'

'Cut off from the stairs, Durney dashed back into the dark hall, where, it appeared, there was a step ladder leading to a trap, and out upon the roof. Quick as lightning, so to speak, he mounted the steps, threw open the trap and dashed out upon the house.'

'We followed as fast as we could, but when we got out upon the roof, the burglar was two or three houses off, clambering from one building to another like a cat.'

'Stop there, you villain, or I'll shoot you down!' cried one of the policemen.'

Shoot if you dare!' was the contemptuous reply, followed by a derisive laugh.'

'At this instant the burglar came to a division of six or eight feet between the houses. Catching himself on the very edge, he drew back suddenly, and gazed around. The moon was up now and we could see it all plainly.'

'Retrace his steps he could not, without falling back into our hands, while on one side of him was the alley not less than a dozen feet wide, and on the other the yards of the houses.'

'A leap of six or eight feet, at a height of three stories, is no trifling matter, but the burglar's only alternative was capture.'

'Meanwhile we were approaching the villain, though but slowly, for we had to be very cautious of our steps.'

'If he 'tempts to jump that he'll save the hangman a job! exclaimed one of the officers, as we stepped along.'

'At that moment Durney darted back a few paces and involuntarily halted. The next moment with a shout of defiance, he wildly dashed forward, and almost that instant, we saw the desperate villain flying through the air.'

'The leap was well made, and only fell a very little; but that little cost the burglar his life. Madly catching at the opposite house, Durney missed his hold, and tumbled down, down, down! A curse of disappointment smote upon the air, and then for a moment all was still.'

'The next instant we reached the edge of the roof, and peeped over the dizzy height. As we did so the body of the burglar struck the side walk, and was dashed into atoms.'

'As soon as possible we descended, and gathered up the remains, which the next day were interred in the paupers' burying ground. Since then nothing has been heard or seen of the burglar's wife.'

'Something of this appeared in the papers, but nothing like the full particulars, which I have here given, you must admit, forms somewhat of an adventure.'

MASTER AND SCHOLAR.—"When I was a boy," said an old man, "we had a schoolmaster who had an odd way of catching idle boys. One day he called out to us:

"Boys, I must have closer attention to your books. The first one of you that sees another boy idle, I want you to inform me, and I will attend to the case."

"Ah," thought I to myself, "there is Joe Simpson that I don't like. I'll watch him, and if I see him look off his book I'll tell. It was not long before I seen Joe look off his book and immediately I informed the master.

"Indeed," said he, "how did you know he was idle?"

"I saw him," said I.

"You did: and were your eyes on your book when you saw him?"

I was caught, and never watched for idle boys again.

If we are sufficiently watchful over our own conduct, we shall have no time to find fault with the conduct of others.

A SHORT ANSWER.—One of the enrolling marshals, the other day received a strong hint from a down town female. Stopping at a lady's house he found her before her door endeavoring to effect with a vegetable huckster a twenty per cent abatement in the price of a peck of tomatoes.

"Have you any men here, ma'am?"

The reply was gruff and curt—"No".

"Have you no husband madam?"

"No."

"Perhaps you have a son, ma'am?"

"Well, what of it?"

"I should like to know where he is."

"Well he isn't here."

"So I see, ma'am. Pray where is he?"

"In the Union army, where you ought to be.

The marshal hastened around the corner. He didn't further interrogate the lady.

☞ A young lady fainted at dinner, the other day because the servant brought a roast pig on the table that showed its bare legs.

'What made you faint?' anxiously enquired her friends as soon as she came to.

'The nakedness of that horrible quadruped,' sobbed this bashful piece of modesty.

'Och, an' bedad, exclaimed the servant who had brought in the offensive pig, 'it wasn't naked at all, at all. I dressed it myself before I brought it in sure.'

☞ An ingenuous youth from the Granite State now residing at Denver, returned to his lodgings a few nights since in a state of great independence and erectness

"My friend," asked his wondering companion and room mate, "are you drunk or sober?"

"Well," replied the youth, with the peculiar dignified and oracular manner which only an intoxicated person can assume, "for Pike's Peak, sober; for New Hampshire, pretty —— drunk."

☞ Punch will continue to poke sharp sticks at us. In his last number is the following. 'Latest from Washington—General Hallock is to assume command of the Federal armies under the title of Hallecksander the Great'

TOUCHING APPEAL.

The following extract from the funeral discourse of Rev. J. R. Berry, at the obsequies of Ex-President Van Buren, at Kinderhook, New York, contains reflections of a highly affecting character:

"Before us lies the lifeless body of one of the Presidents of our Union. We bury him amid such circumstances as never attended the burial of a President of the people's choice before. While we are engaged in these solemn rites, at this very hour an atrocious rebellion is warring for that Union's utter destruction. Shall it succeed? Shall it be said that the life of this republic was measured only by the life of one of its rulers? Are you ready to lay the Union beside him in his grave? Are you willing to make his tomb the memorial of a republic, which in his own lifetime, rose from three to thirty millions—put on a transcendent glory among the nations—blessed its citizens as no other citizens ever were blessed—kindled hope among the oppressed of all the earth—brightened the prospects of the Savior's universal reign, and then suddenly was put to death because its recreant sons would not defend it against the foulest conspiracy the sun ever looked upon, save that which hung the Lord of glory on the cross?

O, with such reflections, who would wish to remember even the names of the rulers of the nation whose ephemeral glories would only cast a deeper infamy upon its untimely ruin? If a shattered and degraded and inpoverished country, how sad would such memories be?—how full of shame and remorse and bitterness? Instead of the rejoicing with which we have been wont to hale the anniversary of our nation's birth, we would rather be tempted to say: "Let that day be darkness. Let not God regard it from above; neither let the light shine upon it. Let darkness and the shadow of death stain it. Let a cloud dwell upon it. Let the blackness of the day terrify it.—Let it not be joined unto the days of the year. Let it not come in the number of months." With a more poignant grief than David's we would cry: "The beauty of Israel is slain upon the high places. How are the mighty fallen. Tell it not in Gath. Publish it not in the streets of Askelon, lest the daughters of the uncircumcised triumph."

As the modern Jew of Jerusalem debarred from the temple of his fathers, weeps every week at the outside of the impenetrable wall and presses his throbbing head in agony against the stones, to think that he may no more see the glories and taste the joys and tread the court of that holy place which once was the common heritage of all; so would we, in a country conquered and destroyed by treason, weep at the outside of the wall of an irretrievable ruin, over privileges and blessings, over the names of rulers and the memories of prosperity and honor, once ours, but forever lost because in the hour of their danger we rush not to their rescue.

Shall it be so, O, ye who assemble to-day to bear one of your nation's rulers to the tomb? Can you bear the thought of yourself and children standing in future years beside that tomb only to look over that nation's ruins? Can you consent to it, if it be the power of man, by the help of God, to avert so dire a doom? If not, then hear the voice which God in His Providence speaks to you to day. It is not the voice of partizanship, or passion, or prejudice; it is the voice of high and holy duty, bidding you like Israel of old, to 'play the man for your people and the cities of your God.' Your natural obligations as citizens demand it, the cause of truth demands it, the remembrance of the past, the dangers and struglings of the present, the hopes and fears of the future, demand it; gratitude to God demands it; a regard for the cause of religion and liberty demand it; all that we hold dear in our own interest and hopes for this world, the love we bare our offsprings, the trembling hopes of millions of the oppressed among the nations' the evil eye and malicious wishes of tyrants—all, all combine in imploring us to know the day of our visitation; to cast away every partisan, and prejudiced, and avaricious thought; and over the grave of our departed President, to pledge our country now, in the hour of its stupendous danger, what the true patriots pledged it at the hour of its birth—our lives, our fortunes, and our sacred honor."

☞ The longest war recorded in history, if not the most destructive and important, was that waged for a hundred and eighty-two years against the Spanish invaders by an Indian tribe, or rather nation, called the Aurancanians, occupying the south-eastern part of South America.

☞ 'Snobs,' said Mrs. Snobs to her husband, the other day, after the ball, 'Snobs, why did you dance with every lady in the room last night before you noticed me?' 'Why, my dear,' said the devoted Snobs, 'I was only practising what we do at the table—reserve the best for the last.'

Has the Soldier a Right to Vote?

One or two of the would-be leaders of the Democratic party in Hollidaysburg, (but who, we fancy, are by this time aware that they do not occupy the coveted position they claim, and who we predict will be severely handled by the masses of that party should ever occasion occur,) have been loudly proclaiming against the right of a soldier to vote, within the past few days. They base their opinion on a decision of the Supreme Court relating to County Officers. We have not read it, but are informed it does not go the length they claim.—What the Supreme Court have to do with determining who is entitled to a seet in Congress or the State Legislature, these gentlemen may understand, but we do not. It is enough for us to know they favor the disfranchisement of the soldier.—Practically it may not be a matter of much moment at this time, as it may not change the result. But we intend to keep a record of the course pursued by these office-seekers. When a decision of the Supreme Court is favorable to their views, they boisterously clamor the law must be sustained. When they don't like it, they bid it defiance. In Gen. Jackson's time, the Supreme Court of the United States decided that a National Bank was unconstitutional. The Democratic party revolted against that decision; and Gen. Jackson himself asserted that he, as President, would not hold it so, even though the Supreme Court unanimously so decided. He vetoed the Charter for a National Bank on that ground, and was largely sustained by the people. The plain truth is simply this: these politicians are for sustaining decisions when they like them, and against them when they don't. The People will not consent to take away from the soldier, who, away from the comforts of home at a nominal consideration, is bravely battling for his country and her institutions, any privilege, which he would have if at home. The man who denies them this right, because he fears his party candidate could not succeed without, will find Jordan a harder road to travel than poet ever sang of, or traveller ever found.

The fiat of the People of Blair County has gone forth, and they have declared in favor of Louis W. Hall, for Senator, by a majority designated by the figures above—unprecedented and overwhelming. If it is swept away by the majorities of Cambria and Clearfield, as seems to be the case, still the vote of Col. Hall in his own home and County, is one he may well ever be proud of. It is a glorious refutation of the slanderous charges made against him. Elected or defeated, the people of our own "Little Blair" sustained him as no man was ever sustained before. Our appeal, made prior to the election, was not in vain, and we thank the people for it. The vote of Mr. Hall in this county, considering the fact that he ran as the regular nominee of one party organization, is unprecedented. About ELEVEN HUNDRED ahead of the Union State Ticket. If he is defeated, it is but a temporary defeat. The heart of the masses of this county is with him, and the time will come when they will demonstrate it still stronger than on the 14th, when they sent him to our sister counties of Clearfield and Cambria, with a majority of nearly seventeen hundred. Glorious "Little Blair"—nobly did she do her work. Long may she wave, the banner county of the State.

The vote for Mr. Hall in the army must be added to his majority in this county. We have not heard what that is.

A GRAND CONCERT IN AID OF A GOOD CAUSE.—A grand Vocal and Instrumental Concert in aid of the new Catholic Church now rapidly approaching completion on Claudia street, will be given at said building on Tuesday evening next, Oct. 28th, 1862, commencing at 7 o'clock. The best musical talent of the neighborhood will participate in the performances, and taken in connection with the rich tones of the new and superb organ which has just been introduced into the church, will form the most rare and complete musical treat that could well be conceived. The admission tickets have been placed at the low price of 25 cents, and will be offered for sale in due time. The edifice itself is indeed an ornament to our town, well worthy the visit of all lovers of the beautiful, and when completed and dedicated, as it will be in a couple of weeks, cannot be surpassed in design and construction by any church edifice in the interior of the State. We say to all, be sure to attend the concert.

A BOY HUNG IN SPORT.—A singular occurrence transpired in Philadelphia on Thursday, resulting in the death of a lad named Alburger, aged fourteen years. It appears that the deceased and a number of his companions were amusing themselves in a slaughter house belonging to Alburger's father by playing "John Brown," a dog belonging to the premises being used to personate the victim. While thus engaged some of the boys playfully placed a strap, used as a rope, around the neck of young Alburger, and proceeded to draw him from the ground by the means of a crank, used to hang meat. By some unfortunate chance the strap tightened around his neck, while his feet did not touch the ground, and he was hung in earnest. His companions, becoming frightened, did not attempt to take or cut him down, but called for the inmates of the house, but before assistance reached him the unfortunate youth was dead.

THE SOLDIERS' VOTE.—It is stated that large numbers of soldiers voted at the last election, whose votes if counted in, may materially change the aspect of affairs. The Supreme Court decided against the constitutionality of the soldiers' vote some time ago, but the vote then was for county, not State officers.

Our Army Correspondence.

HILTON HEAD, S. C.,
Oct. 14, 1862.

MESSRS EDITORS:—Having noticed for some time past that your correspondent "Keystone" has ceased his communications, I will undertake to give you a few items of news from the 10th army corps. For some time previous to the arrival of Gen. O. M. Mitchell everything wore a dull and spiritless appearance. No person seemed to exhibit any energy, except Gen. Hunter himself and by him only in regard to one thing and that was making the condition of the negroes better than that of the white soldiers under his command. He however is now gone, and has been almost forgotten at Hilton Head. The arrival of General Mitchell and his energetic actions at once inspired confidence and enthusiasm. He visited all the different regiments and commands at once, and before he had been here ten days, he was better known by the troops, than his predecessor was when he returned to the North. Expeditions of different kinds are constantly being fitted out and started. About two weeks ago Col. Barton, Comd'g. Ft. Pulaski, took two light draft boats, the Planter and Starlight and about 500 men, and paid a visit to Bluffton on the main land. He drove in the pickets, shelled the town and even frightened the rebels who were quartered at Hardeeville 14 miles distant, so badly that they took to their heels and rested only when they had put about 30 miles between them and the gunboats. Another expedition started to Florida and captured a rebel battery mounting six siege guns and one mortar, besides all the camp and garrison equipage, guns, clothing, rations, in fact everything. The secesh "skedaddled" without firing a shot. Another expedition is now being fitted out for a descent on a different point in Florida. So you see Gen. Mitchell is not idle. He told the troops when he came here that he would not allow them to remain idle, but was determined that they should see the enemy and engage him. In the meantime the appearance of things at Hilton Head is gradually changing. Where one year ago was but a fort and one house, now stand immense Commissary, Ordnance, and Quartermasters store houses. Quite a number of traders have opened stores which do a thriving business. They are located in one line along a new street lately opened, and the line of odd looking houses and tents is facetiously called "Rogues Row." We have a watch maker also and bye and bye I suppose we will have all the different trades fully represented. But decidedly the greatest institution here is the Rail road. The completion of this peculiar feature, is due to the energy and perseverance of Capt. Chas. Garrettson, Depot Quartermaster, and formerly Quartermaster of the 76th P. V. It is not a passenger railway, though many lazy employees seem to think it is, but a substantial horse railroad for conveying stores of all kinds, forage &c., from the dock to the different storehouses. The saving on horseflesh is almost beyond calculation, as any one who has ever visited Hilton Head and witnessed the labor with which the horses drew their weary loads through the deep sand will testify. All praise then to humane Capt. Garrettson. I understand that Gen. Mitchel has applied for more troops, and that an entire brigade will soon be here. If such is the case we may look for some very important movements before long. I fancy you will hear soon that the 10th army corps intends wintering in Savannah and Charleston, and that they are on their way to occupy them.

The health of the troops here is tolerable. We have a great deal of remittent and intermittent fever, though very few cases assume a dangerous character. Very few deaths occur. The 76th enjoys very good health though it has its share of the fever mentioned. Capt. Wayne was for some time on the sick list but is now well. Capt. Hicks, Co. C., has also been under the weather but is fast improving.

Is it possible that you have men in Altoona who do not believe this war to be a just one, and are willing to take an oath to that effect? I hope you have no secessionists among you, yet I fear you have if the report of the doings of some of the citizens on "exemption day" are correct. Men who will resort to goggles, conscientious opposition to the war, &c., are not worthy the protection of the government under which they live, and whose blessings they have enjoyed. They should be scorned by all true patriots, and treated with the contempt their disloyalty deserves. I fear the utterance of their true sentiments, will excite the ire of the volunteers should they ever return, and that once done, they will need to be on their guard.

I hope no such persons are to be found in loyal little Blair who has her 1800 freemen in the field with their lives in their hands, and ready to die for the preservation of this glorious Union, and the enforcement of the laws. Au revoir.

ANOTHER COMET.—A second though very faint comet is now in the vicinity of the orbit of Mars. It is 70,000,000 of leagues from the earth, and 53,000 from the sun.

Indian Massacre—Just Retribution.

A gentleman of high respectability and unimpeachable veracity, direct from St. Paul, informs us above, this morning gave us some harrowing details of the Indian atrocities in Upper Minnesota. The instances mentioned, he says, are not mere rumors or exaggerations, but can be abundantly vouched for. Whole families have been butchered in the most revolting manner, and the mutilated remains heaped together in the houses. The women have been treated with the grossest indignities and then barbarously murdered. No age or sex was spared by the ruthless fiends, but the most revolting and atrocious cruelties were perpetrated by these "noble savages" on helpless babes and defenceless women.

Col. Sibley's forces succeeded in surrounding these murdering savages, when they finding no hope of escape, secreted their arms and sent in a messenger to Col. Sibley, protesting their entire innocence of the outrages. They claimed to be a band of friendly Indians, who had captured the white prisoners from the "bad Indians," and were anxious to give them up. Col. Sibley agreed to treat with them; and thus got them all, Indians and captive whites, into his power. He then told the Indians that he hoped that their story was true, but he should have to give them all a trial, so that he might punish all the bad Indians among them. The Indians, about six hundred in number, were then surrounded, and a court-martial organized at once, the rescued white captives being used as witnesses. The trial is holding at Big Lake, above St. Peter's. Fourteen Indians have already been tried and thirteen convicted. The fourteenth, a chief named Red Eye, was not convicted, the captive women testifying that he was opposed to the atrocities perpetrated on the captives.

Eight of the convicted Indians have been hung, and Col. Sibley seems to give stern justice to the murderers. The people of Upper Minnesota are greatly excited, and swear that if the Government does not exact a terrible vengeance for the attrocities practised, they will themselves wage a war of extermination against the entire Indian race.

GEN. CASS ON THE PROCLAMATION.—Col. E. A. Eastman, in a letter to the editor of the Chicago Tribune, details a conversation with the venerable General Cass, which we append:—"I told General Cass that I had always admired and supported him as a Democrat, but perhaps he would not regard me as a Democrat now, as I had pledged my support to the present officers of the Government, and to all the war measures.' He replied, 'You are right. The Government is right.—You young men must sustain it.' Invited thus to continue the conversation, I said, 'But I approve of the emancipation proclamation, and all.' The old patriot responded promptly, 'so do I.' After a few minutes spent in conversation upon general topics, he came back to the proclamation again. He observed that whether or not the President had the constitutional right to declare the slaves free, the President's friends did not strengthen the measure by claiming it to be constitutional. 'I do not deny,' he said, 'that there is that in the Constitution to justify the act, but the circumstances of the country clearly justify it. He did not fear its effects in the South: he only hoped it would prove effectual. He could not understand how any old Democrat could have any sympathy with the South, and he hoped that if there are any persons in the North who would ever consent to a separation, they would not be permitted to have any position or influence.

A TEUTON APPLYING FOR EXEMPTION.—The offices of the exemption commissioners have been the scene of some funny incidents lately, but the following, which occurred in a neighboring district is about the best reported:—The next applicant was Yawcob Schnider. "What is the matter with you, Yaweob?" "Well, mine back is most broke." "Local or chronic?" asked the clerk. "Locale komic, vats dat?" I mean is yours a standing complaint?" "Nein, I lays in der bed generally." "Well, how did you hurt your back?" "Vell, I was some beer drink last week, in der saloon and I goes mine house in, an den I goes my stairs up, and I tumble my window out, and by tam I strike my sidewalk on my back, and I lies in der bed for tree monts." "Ah," said the clerk you fell out the window last week?" "Yaw." "And you laid in bed three months; how do you make that out?" "Ich nix for stay, Ich can nicht so much English speechen all der while." Yaweob didn't get his papers.

INCIDENT OF THE LATE REBEL RAID.—A gentleman who has just returned from the borders of the State, relates the following:—After the rebel cavalry left Chambersburg, on their way towards Gettysburg, when about ten miles distant from the former place, they met a large funeral procession, which they ordered to come to a halt. Dismounting from their own horses, they selected forty-three of the best horses in the procession, and announced them the horse attached to the hearse. No violence was used, but, on the contrary the greatest politeness was displayed towards the surprised mourners. At length one of the funeral escort demanded to know by whose orders their horses were thus taken. The reply was: "By order of Gen. McClellan—they are wanted for the army. As soon as the horses were properly secured by their captors, they pursued their way to the Potomac, leaving the afflicted friends to find their way with the corpse to the place of burial as they best might.

GARIBALDI TO THE ENGLISH PEOPLE.—Garibaldi has written a very remarkable address to the English people. It is a rhapsody, and contains very little of practical common sense. We quote the following:—"Proceed on your way. O calm, unconquered nation, and be less tardy in calling your sister peoples into the same path of human progress. Call the great American republic, for she is in truth your daughter, and is struggling now for the abolition of that slavery which you have already so nobly proclaimed. Help her to escape from the terrible strife waged against her by the traders in human flesh. Help her, and then plight her by your side at the great assembly of nations—that final work of human intellect. Call to your side all those people who would be free, and less not an hour," &c: The idea of expecting England to help the slaves, if it went against her interest, is farcical in the extreme.

TRIAL OF A PICKET.—An army correspondent thus writes of the trials of the new troops acting as pickets:—"In the night time they transform trees into mounted men, shrubs into pickets, fences into battle-lines, and even rocks into armed rebels. At one time they hastily rallied their ranks and poured a gallant fire into the outcropping rocks in the river, believing them to be a Confederate force fording the babbling current. Even in the day time on one occasion, a few of our men who had crossed to the large island in the river for grain, were fired on by the whole frightened line of pickets, and only saved themselves by falling below the gunwales of the large flat boat. To these raw troops a coon-cry or an owl-screech becomes a bugle call. They need the experience of a campaign to cool their imaginations and temper their zeal."

SLAVERY IN MARYLAND.—The Baltimore American closes an article upon this subject as follows:—If there are any who think that slavery can exist in Maryland, after this war is ended, as a system of profitable labor, the sooner they open their eyes to the inevitable future the better for them. To suppose that after so terrible a conflict as that through which the loyal portion of the country will have passed, they will ever consent to the existence of the cause of the rebellion between them and their National capital, is simply preposterous. If the emancipation proposition is rejected, all that are valuable will be spirited away, and the door shut from their recovery. Whether the slaveholders of Maryland, therefore, the great majority of whom are U. S. SENATOR ELECTED.—Solomon Foote was on the 14th inst re-elected United States Senator from Vermont for six years, by a unanimous vote of the Senate. There were only seven against him in the House.

☞ The men—about fifty in number—who were engaged in the act of resisting the draft in Blackford county, Indiana, are to be arrested, and returned to the military camp at Indianapolis, for disobeying the war.

FLOUR AND WHEAT.—The Lynchburg Republican says that wheat is going up in that market, a strictly prime article commanding from $2 60 to $6 25 per bushel. Family flour is held at $19 50, extra $18 50, superfine $17 50.

☞ The Richmond Dispatch does not like the Yankees. It describes him thus:—"The Yankee is but a degenerate Puritan—the lineal descendant of the Mayflower pilgrims, with all their traits of avarice, hypocrisy and cunning, intensified in transmission."

WHEAT CROP OF INDIANA.—By statistics lately gathered, it is ascertained that the wheat crop of Indiana for the year 1862, will be about 20,000,000 bushels, being 1,750,000 more than the crop of 1861.

LAYING THE DUST.—A new system for laying the dust, without watering the carriage-way, has been some time in operation in Paris. It consists in sprinkling the road with chloride of lime, which, being remarkable for its power of absorbing moisture, soon becomes damp, and thereby prevents any dust from rising, even in the hottest day.

☞ A little boy, named Kline, only fourteen years of age, fell into a coal-shaft at Mascoutah, Illinois, while scuffling with another boy. He was precipitated one hundred and fifty-three feet to the bottom, but striking the water, was not injured beyond a thorough sousing. He was drawn out safely, ran home and changed his clothes, and in forty minutes from the time of the accident, was back again as though nothing had happened.

THREE HUNDRED DOLLARS AN HOUR.—When talking of poor, starving artists, read the following from the New York Post:

"Church, who has not been much occupied during the summer, painted a picture of Niagara Falls the other day for which he received $1,500, exclusive of copy-wright. The old picture of Niagara falls, which did so much for Church's reputation, has also found a purchaser and a resting place after floating around for years from one hand to another."

NEW POLITICAL PARTY.—The new organization, styled the Federal Union party, met in New York on Saturday evening, and nominated Gen. John A Dix for Governor and issued an address to the electors of the State, without distinction of party, to form Federal Union clubs, and send delegates to a convention on the 28th inst., to be held at the Cooper Institute in that city, in order to ratify the nomination of Gen. Dix.

MOUNTAINS OF SILVER.—The Silver Age, of California, says:—From a pretty reliable source we learn that the Ophir Company are shipping weekly, from their works in Washoe county, the sum of not less than $60,000 in bullion, and some weeks it amounts to nearly $100,000 in value.—At this rate the yield of the mine will probably reach the enormous sum of three millions of dollars this year. There are hundreds of mines in our vicinity equally as good, which are undeveloped, but which only require the capital to make them yield similarly.

THE BLACK FLAG.—A Sharpsburg correspondent of the Chicago Times, says he has good authority for stating that the black flag policy advocated by the rebel Congress is opposed by a majority of the rebel chieftains. Gen. Lee stated that it would make "desertions in the army a daily occurrence." Gen. Jackson is said to have remarked that, "to fight under the Confederate flag was the highest honor that could be conferred on a Southerner. Solong as it waved he would fight to the death in supporting it. But he would never lead the victorious armies of the South against the enemy with a black flag at the head of his columns."

QUEER PROCEEDING.—Singular things occur in war times. The following is queer enough to be recorded:—When Harper's Ferry was surrendered, the rebels, of course, took possession of all the moveable property there, except the clothing of the paroled prisoners. The paroled officers and men being destitute of transportation, borrowed of Stonewall Jackson twenty one wagons and teams, only a few hours previously the property of Uncle Sam. The loan was accompanied with the stipulation that the wagons and teams should be returned. They have left Annapolis for Gen. McClellan's headquarters, whence they will be sent under a flag of truce to the rebel lines.

CORCORAN SENSIBLE TO THE LAST.—Gen. Corcoran declines to be a candidate for Congress from the 5th New York district, or any other civil position while engaged in the military service of the United States. In his card he says:—"Having been among the first to respond to the call of the national government, I am firmly resolved to be one of the last to cease my efforts while a vestige of this accursed rebellion threatens to destroy our Union. It is of the most vital importance that a war Democrat be selected to represent your district, and I trust that no other shall receive your support. The present is the crisis of our country's fate, and none but representatives pledged to a vigorous prosecution of the war should be sent the the national Legislature."

CASE OF DANIEL A. BOYD.

PITTSBURGH, December 31, 1861.

DR. G. H. KEYSER:—I take pleasure in making this voluntary statement in favor of a medicine prepared by you called "LINDSEY'S BLOOD SEARCHER." I had suffered for five years with Scrofula which broke out on my head and forehead so as to disfigure me very much, and took off the hair when the disease made its appearance; it also broke out on my arm above and below the elbow, and eat into the skin and flesh so as to expose a fearful sore. The disease on my head went so far that several small pieces of bone came out. I was very weak and low spirited, and had given up all hope of ever getting well, as I had tried several skillful physicians and they did me no good. In September last, 1861, I was induced to try "LINDSEY'S IMPROVED BLOOD SEARCHER." I must confess I had no faith in patent medicines, but after I had used three bottles of Blood Searcher, the ulcers on my head and arm began to heal. I have now taken eight or ten bottles, and my head and arm are entirely well except the scars remaining from the sores. I will also state that I had the rheumatism very bad in my arms and legs. The Blood Searcher also cured the rheumatism. I am now a well man, over forty years of age, and I feel as supple and young as I did when I was twenty, and have increased in weight twenty pounds. I would also state that the disease in my forehead was so bad that when I stooped and lifted anything heavy, the blood run out of the sore. Dr. Keyser had a photograph taken of me by Mr. Cargo, the artist, after I began to get well. It does not show my appearance as bad as it was before I commenced taking the medicine. You can see the photograph, one of which is now in my possession, and also at Dr. Keyser's 140 Wood street. I would also state that I took the Blood Searcher which was made before Dr. Keyser commenced making it. Although it helped me some, I did not recover fast until I got the kind made by Dr. Keyser himself. One bottle of his did me more good than two of the old. I believe it is a great deal stronger and better. I have recommended the Blood Searcher to a great many of my friends for various diseases, and I believe it has helped the whole of them. You may publish this if you wish, and I am anxious that all who are afflicted as I was may be cured. I live in this city, No. 4 Pine street, and am employed at Collville & Anderson's Union Marble Works, 54 Wayne street.
DANIEL A. BOYD.

A BLIND MAN CURED.

I live in Sligo, at Clinton Mill, and have been nearly blind in both eyes for nearly four years. I called on Dr. Keyser about three months ago and asked him to give me directions to the Institution for the Blind in Philadelphia He told me that I need not go to Philadelphia to get well as he had medicine that would cure me, as he said my disease was in the blood. I was treated for it two or three times in the hospital in this city, and was relieved, but my disease always returned after a month or two after I came out of the hospital. I found my disease was returning and I called, by the advice of a good friend of mine, on Dr. Keyser, who has restored my sight, and my eyes are nearly as well as ever. The Doctor gave me "Lindsey's Blood Searcher" and a wash.

A BAD SORE LEG CURED.

PITTSBURGH, September 18, 1861.—I hereby certify that I have had a sore leg for over a year. It was covered with ulcers and sores so that I could not work for nearly a year. My leg swelled so that I was unable to do anything for a long time, for at least six months. I tried several of the best doctors in the city, but without any benefit; finally I called on Dr. Keyser, at No. 140 Wood street, who only attended me about two weeks, and gave me but two bottles of medicine, and I am now entirely well and have contined so for six months. I am employed at the Eagle Engine House on Fourth street, where any one can see me.
THOMAS FARRELL.

CANCER CURED.

A LETTER FROM ENGLAND.—Mr. John Pope, of Blaenavon, near Montypool, Monmontshire, England, writes as follows:

SIR:—An old woman in this place has wished me to write you respecting LINDSEY'S BLOOD SEARCHER, from which she found great benefit, and wishes to have a little more. She has been suffering from a disease of a cancerous nature for the last six or seven years. Her daughter who is living in America, obtained it for her, and sent her eighteen bottles. She is now quite out of it, and I have written to her daughter twice and have received no answer; of course she is anxious to get more, to get completely cured. I told her I would write to you for the agency in this country, and she felt very much pleased to hear me say so. I now beg to ask you on what terms you will supply me; you will please bear in mind the carriage, and supply me as cheap as possible. The carriage on the one dozen bottles was £1 8s 6d. The medicine was a present from her daughter. I would like to have the Blood Searcher in a jar or small cask, if you can send it in that way, or in pint or quart bottles. I will send a bill through bank or registered letter, which ever will be most convenient to you, if you will send me carrier's receipt or the parcel as security. I would send you a stamp to answer this, but as it is uncertain of this reaching you, on account of the country being in six and sevens, a term which is commonly used, you will be kind enough to charge me with the postage.
Yours, respectfully,
[Signed] JOHN POPE.

[We have seen the letter which is published in to-day's Dispatch, from John Pope, and believe it to be genuine.—Editors Dispatch Pittsburgh.
